Are you passionate about working on international, challenging and dynamic projects on European issues? Do you have knowledge of public policy, including at EU level, and an analytical mind?

If this sounds like you, or you're curious to learn more, then this role could be the perfect opportunity. Join Ramboll Management Consulting Belgium as our new Analyst and work with us to close the gap to a sustainable future.

Your new role
As our new Analyst, you will have the opportunity to work directly with clients to drive public policy change while developing your expertise and consulting skills.

Your key responsibilities will be:
- Working across a range of public policy areas, including employment, migration and integration, transport, justice, education and culture, customs and taxation etc.
- Working on proposals and projects contributing to EU policy making, such as evaluations, impact assessments, policy studies, comparative studies and benchmarking, social and economic cost and benefit analyses, feasibility studies, stakeholder consultations
- Conducting desk research, interviews, surveys, qualitative and quantitative analysis and data processing
- Writing reports and drafting presentations for our clients
- Undertaking administrative tasks

Your new team
You will be part of the Socio-Economic Impacts division of Ramboll Management Consulting in Belgium, a dynamic and growing department with professional drive and a strong collaborative spirit. Based in Brussels, our multidisciplinary team works primarily for the European Institutions and other public sector actors across a variety of public policy domains including employment, migration and integration, transport, justice, education and culture, customs and taxation etc. As public policy consultants, we support evidence-based policy making by providing research and analysis, evaluations and impact assessments, stakeholder engagement and process facilitation across these policy areas. The working language of the team is English.

About you
From the moment you start at Ramboll, we will support your personal and professional development so that you can continue to grow with the company. Whilst we look forward to supporting your continued learning and development, for this role we have identified some qualifications, skills, and capabilities that will set you up for success.

These include:
- A bachelor’s and a master’s degree (completed or in the process of doing so), preferably in Public Policy, European Studies, Political Science, Law, Economics, Social Sciences, where you are/were among the top students.
- Knowledge of and an interest in public policy and the EU.
- Strong analytical and drafting skills, including the ability to process large amounts of data from qualitative and quantitative sources.
- An excellent command of English, both written and oral, and ideally fluency in at least one more EU language.
- Experience with qualitative and quantitative analysis and/or evaluation methodology, either from your studies or from a student job, is an advantage.
Personal qualities that will help you succeed in this role include having an independent, pro-active personality, an interdisciplinary mind-set, good communication skills, and a strong team spirit. You should also be organised, pay attention to detail, be able to communicate complex issues in a simple way both in writing and verbally, and be able to handle multiple priorities and a varied workload.

What we can offer you
- Investment in your development
- Leaders you can count on, guided by our Leadership Principles
- Being valued for the unique person you are
- Never being short of inspiration from colleagues, clients, and projects
- The long-term thinking of a foundation-owned company
- A flexible work environment with possibilities of teleworking
- A 1-year internship contract offered through the Belgian CIP (professional induction programme) from 2nd September 2024 to 29th August 2025
- Remuneration of 1,200 EUR net per month (to be reviewed after 6 months based on performance)
